old-fashloned coffin and that it be taken to the cemetery on a farm wagon, instead of a hearse. After her death, relatives tried to find one of the old diamond shape coffins, but were unsuccessful. In-vostigations, however, showed that she had bought the lumber for the coffin and had it stored in a shed on her farm. A carpenter was engaged and made the coffin as she had di-rected. A farm wagon also was used instead of a hearse.

BELGIANS REVOLT

Newcomers to Washington cannot conceive any idea of the immense proportions to which the bicycle craze attained in this city a quarter of a century ago, before the automobile crowded it off the highways and took all the social standing away from the pleasure wheel.

A majority of the Senate has com mitted itself to the McKellar bill, which provides a pension and retirement system for employes of the Government in the classified s-rvice. This means that the prospects are good for the enactment of the bill at this session of Congress, or, at latest, the coming winter.

It also means that the long fight of Government employes, in and out of Washington, to make more secure the old age of those who have spent many years in the service of the Govern-ment has been practically won.

Superannuation Question. In spite of the unwillingness of some Senators and Congressman to adopt a Government pension system for civilian employes, the Govern-ment is about to take up with meth-ods of dealing with the question of superannuation which have been found necessary by the great indus-trial and railroad corporations. That is, it is recognized that when age when they are unable to do their work, they should be retired on such allowances of pay as will insure them against want and starvation and provide them a reasonble meaure of com-regiments which have been organized been fort in their last years.

Within the last several days a canvass of the Senate has been made by a committee of officials of various organizations of Federal employes, including representatives of the postal organizations and also including representatives of the American Federation of Labor. This canvass has been for the purpose of finding which has including representative of the Senate would support the McKellar bill and would endeavor to expedite passage. would endeavor to expedite passage.

The fund to meet the payments would be made up in part by contributions of the employes and in part by a Government appropriation. For years it has been a subject of complaint that the efficiency of the Government service was crippled by the presence on the rolls of large number of aged clerks, too old to do full work, but whom no department head with a sense of justice and fairpess could discharge. The American Federation of Labor has been a potent influence in supporting the proposed legislation.

Ice Boxes on Wheels

Refrigerator cars for carrying meat are ice boxes traveling on wheels.

Most people in America would have to go without fresh meat, or would have to pay more for what they could get, if it were not for these traveling ice boxes.

Gustavus F. Swift, the first Swift in the packing industry, saw the need of these traveling ice boxes before others.

He asked the railroads to build them. The railroads refused. They were equipped, and preferred to haul cattle rather than dressed beef.

So Gustavus F. Swift had to make the cars himself. The first one was a box car rigged up to hold ice. Now there are 7,000 Swift refrigerator cars. Each one is as fine an ice box as you have in your home.

Day and night, fair weather and foul, through heat and cold, these 7,000 cars go rolling up and down the country, keeping meat just right on its way to you.

Thus another phase of Swift & Company's activities has grown to meet a need no one else could or would supply, in a way that matched Swift & Company ideas of being useful.

When you see one of these Swift & Company cars in a train, or on a siding, you will be reminded of what is being done for you as the fruit of experience and
